Perennial Plant Of The Year 2007

Nepeta x faassenii Walker's Low

Each year the Perennial Plant Association sends each member a ballet to select a Perennial Plant of the year. These plants do not tend to be new introductions to the gardening world, but plants that have been tried and proven worthy for a nomination. After the selection, the plant is then promoted all across Canada and Continental U.S.A. Here in the Black Diamond and Calgary area there have been years that the plant chosen has not been hardy to our Agricultural Zone of 2 or 3.

Nepeta Walker's Low is very hardy stunning variety originally from Ireland and is now grown widely across Canada. In the 1970's Mrs Patricia Taylor selected Walker's Low in an Irish Garden. Thus, its name reflects its origins, rather than its growth habits. Actually its height can be up to 30 inches tall, which makes it one of the largest cultivated Nepetas. This stunning variety puts on an unbelievable flower display, with large lavender-blue fragrant flowers that bloom all summer. The leaves are attractive grey-green and blends well with other foliage in the garden. If you have problems with deer and rabbits, you will be pleased to know this plant is resistant to their foraging.

Hardy in Zone 2, this plant needs little attention in a full sun and well-drained soil location. A bloom time from late June to frost makes this plant a real treat to grow. Cut back in fall to 5 inches above the crown of the plant, as Nepeta grows quickly, and often takes gardeners by surprise at its early spring start. Propagation is by division or cuttings. Stock plants are easy to maintain, and stem cuttings may be taken at any time of the year from actively growing plants.
